Using trunk rev 16184, Hotel GUI embedded mode does not initialize properly. The iframe has a loading indicator that never finishes:

Can someone look into this issue?

Weirdly, the window underneath is actually functional and responds to input:

After 20 minutes, you can see the indicator increase.

Greg, the fix would be this:

=== modified file 'src/com/goldencode/p2j/ui/client/driver/web/res/p2j.socket.js'
--- old/src/com/goldencode/p2j/ui/client/driver/web/res/p2j.socket.js    2025-09-16 10:46:24 +0000 console.error(e);

     }
 }
-    if (!p2j.isGui && p2j.setLoadingCheckpoint)
+    if ((!p2j.isGui || p2j.embedded) && p2j.setLoadingCheckpoint)
     {
         p2j.setLoadingCheckpoint(100);

Just a check in p2j.socket.js for embedded mode.

Sergey: this is from #10432.

That does indeed fix the issue.

Sergey: Please get this into a branch, reviewed, tested and merged ASAP. Also: Please update Open Regressions in FWD v4 with the details of this issue.

#7 - 09/29/2025 01:59 AM - Sergey Ivanovskiy

OK. This issue looks unexpected because I definitely checked this issue and even checked the web:client:embedded initialization.

Yes, this code should be in my changes but for some reason I missed them.

10628a created with rev 16185. Open Regressions in FWD v4 list was updated with rev 16177 regression. These changes can be merged into the trunk if there are no objections.

#10 - 09/29/2025 04:59 AM - Constantin Asofiei

- Status changed from Review to Merge Pending

Please merge now.

OK. For my current version of embedded hotel gui the indicator page looks differently.

#12 - 09/29/2025 05:28 AM - Sergey Ivanovskiy

- Status changed from Merge Pending to Test

Branch 10628a was merged into trunk as rev. 16185 and archived.
